Election time nearing in Pahokee; mayor and one commissioner face opposition

Tammy Jackson
Staff Reporter
 Pahokee Mayor Ramon Horta and Commissioner Pete Moore will campaign for another term in office.
 According to Pahokee City Clerk Debra Palmer, Robert Alvis Davis has filed to run against Mayor Horta, and Glen Carrick has filed to run against Comm. Moore. She said Commissioner Keith Babbe was also up for re-election but he received no opposition.
 Mayor Horta, 34, is the youngest mayor for the City of Pahokee. He is also the first Hispanic male to be a mayor in Palm Beach County.
 He said he plans to seek and bring new businesses into Pahokee. "I want to make Pahokee a better place to live," said the mayor.

The mayor is married and has two daughters. He is also a member of the Elks Lodge.
 Mr. Horta's opposition, Mr. Davis, is a building contractor. He could not be reached for comment.
 Comm. Moore, 70, said he wants to continue working to develop industry in Pahokee.

 "I love people and I love Pahokee. This is home and it always will be," said Comm. Moore.
 Active in the community, Mr. Moore said he would like to see more activities for the youths in Pahokee.
 Mr. Moore is a fishing guide. He is married. He is a member of the Chamber of Commerce and the Methodist Church.

 The owner of Glen's Southern Oil, Mr. Carrick has been in business since 1967.
 Mr. Carrick said there's a lot that needs to be done in Pahokee. He said, "I will vote for no water or tax increases in the city." There's just got to be other ways to raise money than raising taxes every year.
 Mr. Carrick has been married for 41 years.
 Election day in Pahokee is May 3.

 Florida Highway Patrol reports indicate Tommy Goodard, 43, and his wife, Rosie Goodard, 41, were killed in the accident. Their son, Christian Goodard, 4, was listed in critical condition at St. Mary's Hospital.
 The couple were driving a 1989 Plymouth.
 Reports state the couple's car hit a 1979 motor home driven by Rob Lee Wynn, of LaBelle.

Canal Point United Methodist church members reenact The Last Supper

By Jackie McMillan
Pastor of the Canal Point Community United Methodist Church

Last week, on Maundy Thursday, at Canal Point United Methodist Church, 13 men vividly portrayed Jesus and His disciples at a supper meal before Jesus' arrest and crucifixion, nearly 2,000 years ago.

This realistic drama brought a heart-wrenching situation to life, as each disciple responded to Jesus' words that one would betray Him.

The setting was taken from Leonardo Da Vinci's painting, "The Last Supper". It was as if the painting came to life, as each disciple spoke and participated in the sharing of the bread and cup together.

The awe-filled crowd found it easy to place themselves back in another day and time, when Jesus walked among us. It was an inspiring night for everyone who came, as they experienced Jesus as portrayed by Bill Blackwell, and the disciples, as portrayed by: John - Wayne Sears; James - Joel Sims; Nathaniel - Joe Spangler; Andrew - Eustis Blackwell; James the Elder - Tommy Yates; Matthew - Robert Maxwell; Thaddeus - Chuck Blackburn; Peter - Rod Ruby; Thomas - Stephen Weeks; Judas - Dennis Wagner; Simon the Zealot - Don McMillan; Philip - Brian Lohmann.

Many others made this night possible, especially Lamar Sears who masterminded the lighting, Diane Wagner who designed the set, with Rynette Kuntz assisting, Nancy Maxwell, Peggy Frank, and Lillian Blackburn whose willing hands worked with costuming, and Joe Edenfield whose talented hands built the banquet table.

It was a night we will never forget. God blessed us through these men and women in an incredible way.

Here's your chance to take off some of those extra pounds and be in better shape for summer. All you have to do is talk two friends into forming a team of three, pick a captain, and report for an official weigh-in on April 8 or 9 at Glades General Hospital.

Glades General's Team Weight Loss Competition is open to anyone in the community who would like to participate. Last year, 29 teams participated and lost over 500 pounds. This year, the goal is 50 teams and a total loss of 750 pounds. Registration will be Friday, April 8 from 7 to 9 a.m. or 4 to 6 p.m. or Saturday, April 9, from 9 to 11 a.m.

Participants pay only $2 per team member or $6 per team. The money will be used to defray the cost of prizes.

At weigh-in everyone will receive weight control guideline packets as well as six weeks of low calorie menus to follow, and a special events calendar. The events will include grocery store tours, low impact aerobics class, and low calorie, low fat cooking demonstrations, plus answers to all questions you might have including personalized computerized weight control guidelines.

The captains will call in their team's weight losses for the week on Fridays to the hospital's Food Service Department. The teams progress will be recorded on a large poster in the cafeteria.

The official weigh-outs will be Friday, May 20 from 7 to 9 a.m. or 4 to 6 p.m. or Saturday, May 21 from 9 to 11 a.m.

The awards party will be May 26. Prizes and certificates will be awarded to the team that loses the largest percentage of weight, the team members who attend the most educational events, and the teams who lose 20 pounds or more.

For more information call Sue or Kim at Glades General Hospital, 996-6571, extensions 480 or 567.

Handicapped parking not marked correctly

I'm calling about the City of South Bay. All the time I come over from Belle Glade and I have to go through that city and all you see is the cops out there running radar and writing tickets. That's all they ever do.

They're the first ones to write you a ticket for doing one mile over the speed limit or not having your seat belt buckled.

But then, I was in court and I found out that they have handicapped parking, which is required by law, out in front of the police department and city hall and they're not even properly done and they're not properly painted. And then somebody shows a ticket in court, and they get the case dismissed because they don't have proper spaces out in front of their department.

There have been numerous complaints made about this, but they won't correct it. They don't care about the handicapped citizens in South Bay, Belle Glade and the surrounding areas, but they are quick to write tickets.

They want that money, but they won't spend $20 of it to properly paint the handicapped signs.

If they're so quick to write a ticket for every-body else violating the law, I'd like to know how we can write them up for violating that law.

Lester Baird, city manager for the City of South Bay responds to the handicapped parking portion of this Speak Out:

"The spaces are signed and marked, but apparently not precisely correctly done. This Speak Out message is my first knowledge of the problem with the handicapped parking spaces. Had the caller phoned me it would have been corrected long ago.

I will see to it that the correct pavement markings and signage are placed within the next week."

Now, Police Chief Roy L. Hamston responds to speeding tickets:

"In response to the writer concerning South Bay Police Department activity, it should be noted that traffic enforcement is merely one part of what the South Bay Police Department does. We had over 500 physical criminal arrests in 1993, for many various offenses. The mission of the South Bay Police Department is to protect the community and to serve the community through public service calls and projects.

Traffic enforcement is one part of law enforcement and speeding is a small part of traffic enforcement. Why do we issue traffic citations? The primary reason is to reduce automobile accidents which include injuries and death. Tickets do not cross over my desk unless they are 10 miles per hour over the speed limit and the majority of those are 15 miles per hour over the speed limit. There are no 1 mile per hour over the speed limit tickets written.

As to seat belts, perhaps the caller is unaware that seat belts are a second secondary violation and people are NOT pulled over for just not having a seat belt buckled. You must have committed some other offense against the traffic laws and when stopped for this offense if it's found you are not wearing a seat belt, you can also receive a citation for this. Many people have a misconception of police duties. The South Bay Police Department welcomes questions by the public.

To fully understand the gravity of unlawful speeding you have to stand on Highway 27 at the scene of an automobile accident and see a young child crushed by the wheels of a speeding truck as I have in South Bay. You might then have a different perspective."

Is Crisis Unit turning them away?

"I'm calling in reference to the apparent hangings/suicide of the 14-year-old girl in Belle Glade last week.

I'm a friend of a friend of the family. I understand that a friend of the deceased girl, a 13-year-old, went to the Crisis Unit for help because she was contemplating suicide.

What I was told was that the nurse, doctor and the in-take person there turned her away.

What I want to know is if there was a Crisis Unit. See Speak Out, page 5

Guest commentary

By Dean Beck
Vista Literacy Coordinator at the Belle Glade Library

Inability to read is slavery

There is reason to believe the rate of illiteracy is going to get worse. In the time of our great grandfathers there were more illiterate Americans. The number of totally illiterate citizens probably has lessened, but the functionally illiteracy rate has increased. The economic and social order imposes needs upon a person that creates the "functionally illiterate."

"Retraining" is an important, politically correct word. We anticipate retraining those who are displaced in the work force. "Retraining" can only be for those who can participate in training programs. Those who cannot read may find no work at all. The day of earning a living by a strong back or nimble fingers is past. Even if the job market opens up, there will not be employment for non-readers.

Illiteracy is on the rise and we desperately need people who can read, write and interpret. Cash registers that have a picture of a "Big Mac" or "Whopper" may help support those who are reading incapacitated but it offers no hope for a brighter future.

Community leaders, black leaders in particular, have been reluctant to direct the focus of attention to the crisis of adult illiteracy within the lowest economic levels of the population. Their reticence is based upon misguided fear. In pointing to the 44 percent of black adults who cannot read or write at levels needed for participation in American society, they are afraid they may offer ammunition to those racist and reactionary persons who are often eager to attribute failure to innate inadequacy or who, while they may refrain from stating this, will nonetheless believe it. Naming the victim should not be equated with the age-old inclination to place blame upon the victim.

Illiterate Americans, denied almost all contact with the print-recorded past, cannot effectively address the present nor anticipate the future.

People who are robbed of history, whether by slavery or by the inability to read, do not have much reason to distinguish between past and present. Those who have been robbed of opportunity to shape a future different from the one their parents and grandparents knew do not have much reason to distinguish between now and never.

Few of the votes of those who have been viewed for so long as expendable are likely to be cast for politicians who have done their best to cut off aid to programs that have given fleeting glimmers of hope to those who cannot read or write.

The funding for the VISTA program for tutoring of adults will end in July. The program should be continued by local actions. You should involve yourself, in some way, in making life a little easier for some of your fellow citizens.

Although I am always in favor of a sound nutritional approach to healthy living, I don't think that merely altering your diet will allow your fears, sadness and confusion. Moreover, although an anti-depressant might be indicated in your case, medicine alone won't cause all your problems or life issues to vanish.

I strongly recommend some sort of psychological or pastoral counseling. You are struggling now with some important decisions.

Speak Out

Unit in Belle Glade that is here to help in time of need, why was this young lady turned away?

I understand that the majority of upper management lives on the coast and they do not, or appear not, to know what's going on when people come to the Crisis Unit.

I'd like for this to be acknowledged in your paper. I would like a response from the Western Palm Beach County Mental Health Clinic as to the facts, and why we're turning people away in crisis.

Our children need our help as well as our adults. We can not always send our children to South County for help. Sometimes time is of the utmost importance that we get help right then and there. If they're in the business of helping, why isn't there a children's crisis unit here?

Our young people are in crisis and I do believe that no one, regardless of race, creed or color should be turned away at a time of need.

Please print this and maybe something can be done when people are turned away from Belle Glade's Crisis Unit.

Thank you.
Joseph Amato, executive director for the Western Mental Health Center responds: While I appreciate the opportunity to answer questions raised by the caller regarding the Crisis Unit, I would like to suggest that anyone who has a question or complaint about the mental health clinic feel free to contact the executive director directly at 992-1330.

Since strict confidentiality laws protect the privacy of persons who utilize the mental health services, both private and public, it is impossible for me to discuss a specific case in this response. However, I would like to take the opportunity to educate the community on the procedures followed by the Crisis Unit in responding to persons who come to the facility for services.

The Crisis Unit operates under a state license with a strict set of state rules that we must comply with. We are careful to comply so as to protect the safety of our patients, our state license and our liability insurance. Any person who comes to the Crisis Unit must be evaluated. This includes children and adolescents even though we do not admit children under 14 years of age to our unit but refer them to the Children's Crisis Unit at South County Mental Health Center or private hospitals. This is done because children cannot and should not be placed on the same unit with adults.

We agree with the caller that the Glades should have its own children's crisis unit. That, however, is an issue that involves HRS funding which has been cut substantially over the past several years. Cost and utilization are issues that would have to be resolved.

When a person comes to the Crisis Unit, professionals evaluate the person to determine if admission is necessary. We operate on the philosophy of treating each person in the least restrictive environment possible. A Crisis Unit is a very restrictive environment and should only be used when other outpatient alternatives are not appropriate. This is particularly true for children and adolescents. Keep in mind that being admitted to a Crisis Unit is a serious event in a young person's life and is not to be taken lightly.

The fact that any individual is not admitted to the CSU is an indication that, based on a professional evaluation, admission was determined to not be appropriate for that person. It does not mean, however, that the person may not have needed other outpatient services. Nor does it indicate that he or she is not receiving or has not been referred to outpatient services. All persons who come to the Crisis Unit are referred to other appropriate services when admission is inappropriate.

Regarding the comment about the place of residence of our staff, the issue for the Crisis Unit is whether professionally trained and experienced staff are following professional standards and doing their job ethically and conscientiously. We have every reason to believe that this is the case. However, I repeat, should anyone in the community have a concern or questions about any of the clinic's programs, I will make every effort to answer those concerns or questions satisfactorily.

Also, I would like to invite anyone in the community who would like to see a Children's Crisis Unit available in the Glades to contact me so that we can inform HRS and other potential funders of the community's need of and support for such a program. The formation of a group of concerned citizens can achieve results more easily than the Mental Health Center acting alone.

Also responding is an Intake Screener for the Crisis Stabilization Unit of the Western Palm Beach County Mental Health Clinic, Inc.

In response to the Speak Out entitled, "Is Crisis Unit turning them away?" it is apparent that the Belle Glade community does not understand the purpose nor the procedures of a crisis stabilization unit (CSU).

These units are mandated by the legislature of the State of Florida and must strictly adhere to the rules and regulations promulgated by HRS. They are staffed by licensed medical, nursing, and mental health professionals, all of whom are caring people.

The screening procedure used at the CSU is a detailed assessment of the individual's psycho-social history, psychiatric history, current mental status, the current acute crisis, and the support system available to them.

They are assessed for violence potential, suicidality, and homicidality. This assessment is conducted in private, with complete confidentiality (except for situations involving child abuse, elderly abuse, and where the life of another person is threatened).

After the information is conveyed to the staff psychiatrist, a decision is made as to whether or not the patient meets the criteria for admission to CSU. If admission is not necessary, the patient is counseled and given an appointment with the appropriate department at West County Mental Health and/or referred to a community agency that will meet their needs. Approximately 20 percent of the people presenting to the CSU are not appropriate for admission but no one leaves the CSU without knowing where they should go and who they should speak with in order to obtain the help they need.

Indeed, our young people are in crisis. Some do not have healthy family environments, others cannot look to healthy role models, many are experiencing an enormous amount of community violence, and still, others believe that because of their race, religion, or economic status, their future presents limited opportunities. Indeed, some of our children need psychiatric care and Belle Glade deserves and needs a children's crisis stabilization unit. The citizens of Western Palm Beach County are all too familiar with what it takes to get something accomplished in a society as rich and diverse as ours.

Please, in the interest of "our" children, speak to our political leaders so that they know what our community needs. In the meantime, the CSU is open and staffed 24-hours per day, seven days per week, and no one is "turned away."

The 14-year-old child who recently committed suicide was never brought to the CSU. I wish I had the chance to know and help her. The loss of one child is too much to bear.

Calling with question

I live in Belle Glade. They have a Civil Service employment, I guess for the police chief and other officials.

What would the City of Belle Glade have to do to go back to the elected police chief and mayor?

Would they have to get a petition up, get people to sign it? How would we go about so we would have have them elected these positions?

Editor's note: It would take a petition with a percentage of local voter's signatures to change the way officials were elected. You can contact the Supervisor of Elections at 996-4800 for more information.

Grads of the '40's renew old friendships in class reunion

By Hugh Branch, Class of 44

Pahokee High School graduates of 1943 through 1946, along with many other students of the forties, gathered in Pahokee March 18-20, to renew and celebrate old friendships.

To kick off activities for the weekend, about 150 people attended a fish fry at Canal Point Community Center on Friday night, March 18. Much fun was enjoyed with remembering school days of the past, and getting caught up on happenings to each other over the past 50 years.

Again at noon on Saturday, March 19, the group enjoyed a sandwich lunch and get-together at the Belle Glade Marina. In the afternoon, planned activities such as tours of the area and golf course were very popular with many of the attendees.

The Pahokee Elks Lodge catered a banquet on Saturday night. A wonderful evening of dancing to Paul Chafin's Quintet, with popular tunes of the 40's, was enjoyed.

Many former teachers and spouses of deceased faculty members attended, and were delightful in helping everyone remember their days at Pahokee High.

An extremely emotional and heart-warming memorial service to honor deceased classmates was conducted at the Pahokee Elks Lodge on Sunday morning at 11 p.m.

Mary Mullis was honored for coming the longest distance to attend the reunion. She was from Nebraska. Mr. and Mrs. C.R. Wetherington were honored for being the couple who have been married (52 years) 'the longest in the group. The reunion committee consisted of Flora Weeks Todd, Margaret Anderson Collier and Nell Latham Hooks.

With many tears and farewell hugs, the weekend celebration came to a close with hopes of yet another great reunion in the years ahead.

South Bay Mayor Clarence E. Anthony and Pahokee Mayor Ramon Horta were invited to the Governor's Mansion to meet with Governor Lawton Chiles. The mayors discussed issues such as the Everglades Clean-Up legislation, affordable housing, immigration policy and the proposed crime bill. Recently, the governor appointed Mayor Anthony to the Florida Advisory Council on Intergovernmental Relations, and Mayor Horta was appointed to the State of Florida Sustaining Florida Task Force.

Horta named to commission for a sustainable S. Florida

Governor Lawton Chiles recently announced appointments to the Commission for a Sustainable South Florida. The governor's commission was created by Executive Order to recommend strategies for ensuring the long-term compatibility of a strong South Florida economy and healthy Everglades ecosystem, and to improve coordination of both public and private sector activities.

The Everglades ecosystem is widely recognized as a unique area of local, state, national and international importance. South Florida is also an international commercial, agriculture and tourist center with a diverse population reflecting varied economic, cultural and social values.

"A healthy environment and Everglades and a prosperous South Florida economy are not only compatible but mutually dependent," said Governor Chiles. "By promoting economic activities that are compatible with a healthy Everglades ecosystem, we will ensure that Florida's most precious natural treasure and vibrant South Florida economy will be enjoyed for generations."

The commission is composed of 35 voting members representing South Florida's business community and environmental organizations, as well as public sector. Representatives of four key federal agencies will also participate. The commission will provide quarterly status reports to the governor and Cabinet and by July 1995 will submit a five-year action plan to implement their recommendations.

Representing local government will be Ramon Horta, Mayor of Pahokee. According to Mr. Horta, "I will be open to any ideas and suggestions from the public and the business people of the Glades." He said the committee will work on the outcome of our future that deals with the environmental effect of our communities.

Students to take trip to Disney World

Students enrolled in the Cities in Schools (CIS) Program at Glades Central Community High School have the opportunity to spend two days in Orlando thanks to a grant sponsored by CIS of Palm Beach County.

Anne Haskell, one of the two CIS teachers at GOCHS, applied and was awarded a CIS mini-grant for $2,486. Jane Schmidt, program specialist for CIS, presented the check to Alma Henry, CIS project manager, and Ms. Haskell Feb. 7.

According to Ms. Haskell, 12 students will have an opportunity to earn a trip to Epcot Center and Disney World. Presently, there are approximately 160 students enrolled in CIS.

At the beginning of the third week, CIS teachers Bruce Hoffman, Ms. Haskell and Ms. Henry announced to the students that they had received a grant for the incentive trip. Since then, students have been working hard in all of their classes to earn one of the trips.

The criteria to be used to select the winners will be:

- Four students, two from each teacher's class, with the highest GPA for the third nine weeks;

- Four students, two from each teacher's class, with the biggest improvement in GPA from the second to the third nine weeks;

- One student from each teacher's class with the highest improvement in attendance; and,

- One student from each teacher's class with the biggest improvement in behavior.

The winners will be announced the first week in May. They will depart after school on May 11 for the trip to Orlando.

According to Ms. Haskell, the group will attend the People and Places Tour of Epcot Center on Thursday, and go to Disney World on Friday, returning to Belle Glade on Friday evening. Chaperones for the trip will be Ms. Haskell, Ms. Henry and an officer from the Belle Glade Police Department.

Chief Miller has agreed to let a male officer go as a male chaperone and to enhance the relationship local police have with teenagers in the Glades community.
